Good afternoon Honorable Supervisors,

Please find attached a letter supporting CARP Growers and member farms, including the two appellants at Tuesday's hearing, Creekside and Ever-Bloom. The co-signers on this letter include highly involved community members at our schools, on elected boards and in the local business community. Importantly, they're all neighbors and stakeholders on the South Coast. It's a small cross-section of supporters of responsible cannabis farmers in the community and represents only a sampling of robust support for local agriculture.

Thank you for your consideration

To the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors:

As a local resident, I fully support CARP Growers member farms and applaud their leadership in the cannabis industry. Through community outreach and education, they have demonstrated that cannabis plays a positive role in the community, in the economy and in carrying on the agricultural legacy of Carpinteria Valley. Cannabis farming is compatible with the community of Carpinteria and Carpinteria Valley.

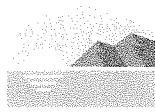

Cannabis farming is important to Santa Barbara County's economy and for providing a new source of tax revenue and jobs. Responsible farmers need to be supported and the county should work with farmers to make sure they follow rules, while setting them up for success into the future. Their success is shared success.

We have witnessed cannabis farmers being the first to step up to support the community time and again. It's not only writing checks, but they volunteer and continue to be personally involved with every local initiative supporting nonprofits, youth programs and building community.

I encourage Santa Barbara County to stay the course and enforce its strict standards on cannabis farms. I'm confident CARP Growers member farms will meet and exceed the standards. Our local farmers are an important part of the community, and the success of their businesses should be important to everyone in the county.

Thank you for your consideration,
