Summary Text:

Located on Santa Barbara Canyon Road in the unincorporated area of Cuyama in Santa Barbara County, this project included overlaying a total of 3.0 miles of the road, from Foothill Road to the South End, using a Type B asphalt concrete.

The Director of Public Works accepted this project as complete on October 10, 2008. The project was completed on time and on budget.

Background:

On July 4th 2007, the Zaca Fire started north of Los Olivos and east of Foxen Canyon Road. By August 3rd, the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors declared a local emergency in response to the changing situation of the Zaca Fire and also activated its Emergency Operation Center. Governor

Arnold Schwarzenegger visited the County’s Emergency Operation Center on the same date and signed a state declaration of emergency for the Zaca Fire. By the time it was fully contained on September 4, 2007, the Zaca Fire had burned approximately 240,207 acres.

During the 60 days of fire control efforts and subsequent demobilization and clean up, Santa Barbara Canyon Road sustained significant road damage. This road was used as a primary entry point into the Los Padres National Forest and out of the Richardson Camp in New Cuyama. Traffic included transportation of heavy equipment, bulldozers, water trucks, fire engines and personnel around the clock. Santa Barbara Canyon Road is also the only access to many residents at the south end of the road.
