Council welcomes new water district GM

The Carpinteria City Council welcomed Kelley Dyer as the new general manager of the Carpinteria Valley Water District. She will also serve as executive director of the Groundwater Sustainability Agency.

"I'm honored, privileged and grateful to be part of this community," Dyer said. "It's an exciting time to be in this role — we are working hard on the Advanced Purification Project."

Dyer previously served as assistant general manager of Casitas Municipal Water District and, before that, as water supply manager for the city of Santa Barbara. She will work closely with the council, providing periodic updates and remaining available to answer questions.

Cannabis odor enforcement deadlines approach

On March 10, the Santa Barbara County Board of Supervisors will consider requests from eight cannabis operators seeking deadline extensions to comply with county odor-control requirements.

Under recently adopted countywide cannabis odor-abatement amendments, operators must install carbon filtration systems by March 10. If an extension is denied, an operator will lose their county cannabis license, must remove plants and cease cultivation. Operators may regain their license by coming into compliance.

Wade Cowper, chief of staff to First District Supervisor Roy Lee, told the council that the county has taken additional steps to reduce overall cultivation impacts.

"We've reduced the overall cultivation acreage, increased licensing fees and required scrubbers to be installed," Cowper said.

On March 18, the county will also prohibit the use of vapor phase odor-masking agents. Operators using vapor phase after that date will not be permitted to continue operations.

Cardenas named 2025 Volunteer of the Year

The Carpinteria City Council named Reynaldo Cardenas as the 2025 Carpinteria Volunteer of the Year. A resolution honoring him will be presented at the April 27 regular council meeting.

Cardenas organizes and oversees the annual Summer Co-Ed Adult Softball League at Viola Fields, a long-standing community tradition that began with the Cardenas family's partnership with the city in the 1980s. The league promotes physical activity, social connection and community engagement.

"We absolutely commend years of service — that's a key piece — but the focus here is to nominate an individual who went above and beyond in the calendar year of 2025," City Program Manager Juliza Briones said.

Cardenas independently manages team coordination, scheduling, communication, securing umpires, organizing playoffs and coordinating awards, helping ensure the league remains accessible, affordable and welcoming to the Carpinteria community.
