RESUME'

I have had a continuing interest in natural resources and resource management all my life, fostered by my family's involvement in farming for five generations, as well as my own anecdotal observations during 40 years as a commercial sea urchin diver/fisherman and, more recently, 15 years as a small farm operator employing organic methods.

My personal gauge of involvement in resource management is to what extent it can help conserve and sustain resources as a whole.

Professional experience:

Owner/manager of farm employing organic practices – 2000-present, Buellton, CA

Made all production decisions; supervised all aspects of farming; interfaced with Central Coast Groundwater Coalition (CCGC) and Central Coast Water Quality Preservation, Inc (CCWQP), attended professional meetings. Since 2012 I have transitioned from growing produce in the summer and diving in winter to raising rare heritage Mangalitsa wooly pigs for market yearlong.

Commercial sea urchin diver / fisherman – 1974-2014

My community and professional Board affiliations:

Served on the water quality monitoring committee for Region 3, advisory to the Regional Water Control Board.

Channel Islands National Marine Sanctuary Advisory Council	1998–2001
CINMS SAC	2006–2009
CDFG Director's Sea Urchin Advisory Committee (DSUAC)	1987 –1998
Sea Grant Living Marine Resources Committee	1993 – 1997

Education: College, 1 year

Additional information: With five generations of farming knowledge and experience, I am keenly interested in fostering and utilizing sustainable farming practices and water conservation.
