Vincent T. Martinez was born and raised in Orange County, California. Mr. Martinez attended Loyola Marymount University and graduated with a degree in Business Administration. Immediately thereafter, he earned his law degree from Loyola University School of Law. In 1994, Mr. Martinez began his career as an attorney in Santa Maria, California where he joined the law firm of Twitchell and Rice, LLP, and became its managing partner in 2000. Mr. Martinez' practice areas include environmental law, agricultural law, corporate - business law, and oil and gas law. In his practice, Mr. Martinez represents oil companies and mineral owners in the development of mineral interests. Mr. Martinez also serves as a fiduciary and manager of royalty and mineral interests in San Luis Obispo County, Santa Barbara County and Solano County, all in the state of California. Mr. Martinez is currently the manager of the mineral company known as Escolle Tenants In Common. Mr. Martinez' representation of agricultural and oil and mineral businesses has placed him in a unique position of uniting agricultural and oil and mineral businesses and organizations to work together in unison regarding regulations and laws affecting both industry areas in the State of California.
